

Typology and field linguistics

Présentation

DESCRIPTION

SL4CY091

This class offers a general introduction to the diversity of languages in linguistic analysis. It alternates typology and field methods. In typology sessions, we will look at how the grammar of world languages realizes various linguistic categories (argument structure, person markers, valence alternations etc.) In field data analysis, we will work on annotated field materials in order to generate analyses on the topics previously covered in the typology sessions.

Pour en savoir plus, rendez-vous sur > u-paris.fr/choisir-sa-formation